1. This application is in condition for allowance except for the following formal matters:

a) The title of the invention is not descriptive. A new title is required that is clearly indicative of the invention to which the claims are directed.

b) Figs 8-10 should be labeled as Prior Art.

c) In the abstract, line 9, "means" constitutes legal terminology.

d) In claim 1, line 9, "develop our" should be changed to --developer--.

e) In claim 4, the applicant states that the developer carrying members are supplied with "common" voltages from "said voltage applying means" however, there has only been a "common voltage applying means" for applying voltage to the regulating members which is not the same the developer carrying members.

f) In claim 6 and 7, these claims are grammatically awkward and additionally, the second developer carrying member was previously said to be not rotating but in these claims the applicant claims them as rotating

Prosecution on the merits is closed in accordance with the practice under Ex parte Quayle, 1935 C.D. 11, 453 O.G. 213.

A shortened statutory period for reply to this action is set to expire TWO MONTHS from the mailing date of this letter.

2. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Sakaizawa et al, Kawasaki, Rogers, et al., Folkins, Suzuki and Iida (JP) all teach various bias potentials applied to developing rollers and/or regulating members but do not anticipate or render obvious a plurality of developing carrying members having regulating members in contact therewith to regulate the developer carried by the carrying members and voltages applied to both the carrying member and regulating member such that a first developer carrying member is rotating (image formation) and the second carrying member is not rotating (non-image formation) and such that a potential difference between the regulating member and non-rotating carrying member is smaller than the potential difference between the regulating member and the rotating carrying member .
